Le mie-mandar avait fait dresser ses tentes sur la rive droite de l'Unna, en face de Costanitza (1). Lorsque l'ambassade fut arrivée à cette ville frontière, l'envoyé ottoman monta à cheval avec sa suite, et vint faire à l'ambassadeur la visite d'étiquette. Quelques heures après elle lui fut rendue avec le même apparat. Il nous reçut sous sa tente ; le café et les sorbets nous furent présentés. Dans cette première entrevue, le cérémonial oriental et sa teinte antique, mis en opposition avec la civilité européenne, nécessairement devaient fournir à l'observateur une foule de remarques curieuses et d'émotion d'un genre particulier. La différence qu'il retrouvait encore dans le costume, le langage, la physionomie, enfin dans tout ce qui constitue l'être moral et physique, achevait de le confirmer dans l'idée qu'il allait entrer dans un monde nouveau.

(1) Le mie-mandar est un envoyé du grand seignent. Ses fonctions consistent à aller recevoir sur la frontière l'ambassadeur annoncé, à le guider jusqu'aux portes de la capitale, à exercer envers lui, au nom de Sa Hautesse, les devoirs de l'hospitalité pendant toute sa route. En conséquence, les moyens de transport, la nourriture, le logement, sont fournis à l'envoyé et à sa suite, quelque nombreuse qu'elle soit, sans la plus légère rétribution. Il est vrai que les cadeaux qu'il distribue sur son chemin, à tous les pachas, à tous les officiers militaires qui le reçoivent, joints aux baktchiches qu'il fait compter à leurs gens, acquittent en partie la dette; mais la coutume n'est pas moins noble, généreuse, digne enfin des nations les plus avancées dans la civilisation; elle est d'ailleurs d'autant plus attachante qu'elle ramène le souvenir des siècles les plus reculés.

Le lendemain, après avoir passé l'Unna sur le pont de bois qui traverse cette rivière, nous montâmes, les hommes à cheval, les dames en litières couvertes, et nous prîmes la route de Bagna-Lucka (1). On compte neuf heures de Costanitza à Butzovatz, qui fut notre premier gîte. Le pays a la même physionomie que dans le bassin de la Sanna. On remarque de la culture dans les vallées, des habitations sur le penchant des coteaux, surtout jusqu'à Ghebovatz. Parvenue à ce village la caravane fit halte, sous des ombrages, au bord d'un clair ruisseau, et nous vîmes arriver un déjeuner abondant composé de laitage, de pilauw, de vin blanc, de moutons et de volailles rôties. Le batz et de la Bosna, elle est très-fatigante, même dans la belle saison. Après avoir cheminé deux heures dans une gorge fort resserrée, on gravit péniblement la montagne. Au sommet du premier degré on trouve un vaste plateau. Le second degré se présente ensuite. Sa crête est le point de partage des eaux de la Verbatz et de la Bosna. Les flancs de ces monts sont couverts de forêts composées de chênes et de hêtres près de la base; de sapins et de mélèzes dans la région supérieure. Les plateaux présentent de vastes pâturages, qui paraissent abandonnés, à en juger par la rareté des habitations; enfin il n'est pas de route plus solitaire; dans aucune contrée il n'est pas de pays dont l'aspect soit plus sauvage. Il n'y aurait qu'une avant-garde composée uniquement d'infanterie légère, et débarrassée de toute espèce d'attirail, qui pourrait s'y risquer.

(1) Le pacha de Bosnie avait fait la galanterie d'envoyer les litières des dames de son harem. Ces litières sont matelassées à l'intérieur, couvertes en drap rouge, et portées par deux mules; pour la forme elles se rapprochent de la caisse de nos voitures les plus antiques.

Vacup, sur lequel on se dirige, et qui se compose d'une quarantaine de maisons, marque, à quelque différence près, la moitié de la distance entre Bagna-Lucka et Traunick. Au sortir de ce village on s'engage dans une épaisse forêt d'arbres verts. On prend à sa naissance une vallée étroite et d'une pente [illegible] qu'il pas la vue rencontre des cimetières parsemés de pierres grisâtres, dont l'aridité n'est point tempérée, comme dans la capitale et la généralité des provinces, par ces ombrages qui étendent un voile mélancolique et répandent une teinte consolante sur les sépultures des Orientaux. Pour achever de peindre Travnick il faut joindre à ce mélange bizarre de cimetières et d'habitations, des vergers nombreux, qui soulagent un peu les yeux et ramènent le sourire. Ces oppositions fréquentes révèlent la pensée, les mœurs, les habitudes, en deux mots donnent l'intelligence de ces êtres énigmatiques qui forment une opposition morale si prononcée avec le reste de l'espèce humaine.

Le château est assis sur la croupe d'un contrefort qui sépare les deux ravins. Son tracé présente un quadrilatère flanqué de tours. Non-seulement il a, comme tous les forts de la Bosnie, le défaut de n'offrir à la défense qu'un espace très-resserré, mais encore il est dominé et d'un accès facile. Le pacha l'a converti en prison d'Etat : c'est là qu'il renferme les Bosniaques récalcitrans que sa vengeance peut atteindre. Quant au palais habité par le repréprécédèrent à l'instar des pachas de premi[ère] classe. Les notables, les officiers de la maison du gouverneur groupés autour de lui, donnaient au cortége un air de pompe vraiment imposant, que la physionomie originale des lieux contribuait encore à rendre pittoresque.

Nous cheminions au son d'une musique composée d'instrumens criards, qui, pendant toute la marche, cherchèrent à jouer l'air de Marlborough sans pouvoir en venir à bout, quelques efforts qu'ils fissent pour éviter les divagations. Il était nuit close lorsque nous arrivâmes à Traunik. Nous fîmes notre entrée aux flambeaux, précédés d'un grand nombre d'habitans qui se joignirent au cortége à quelques cents pas de la ville. Tous les cuisiniers du pacha avaient été employés à nous préparer un souper à la turque, qu'on nous servit chez le consul de France. Après les mets substantiels, tels que des volailles bouillies ou apprêtées avec du riz, du mouton au naturel et déguisé de plusieurs manières, nous vîmes paraître une série innombrable de plats couverts de pâtisseries et de sucreries, où la variété s'était épuisée tant sous le rapport des formes que du goût. Les Turcs, de même que tous les Orientaux, se modèrent Traunick est le point central des communications de la Bosnie. Nous avons déjà parcouru en détail les routes qui conduisent à cette ville, en partant de l'Erzégovine et de la rive gauche de la Verbatz. D'autres vont gagner les bords de la Bosna sur différens points et descendent avec elle jusqu'à la Save, ou passent sur sa rive droite pour se rendre dans les vallées de la Spretza et de la Drina. Celle qui va chercher la première de ces rivières, conduit successivement à Vranduk, Scepsé et Maglay. Vranduk, à cinq heures de Traunick, est un hameau avec château fort situé sur un rocher escarpé qui domine le cours de la Bosna. Le pays qu'on traverse pour y arriver est peuplé, bien cultivé, et produit principalement des grains.

La Bosna reçoit un grand nombre d'affluens parmi lesquels les plus considérables sont la Laskwa et l'Ursova qui arrivent par sa gauche; la Migliaska, la Dobrovitza et la Spretza qui débouchent sur sa rive droite. Tous ces cours d'eaux prennent leurs sources dans les larges contreforts qui couvrent d'aspérités l'espace compris entre les grands bassins. La Bosna dessine une courbe à peu près parallèle à celle de la Verbatz; elle est navigable jusqu'à Scepsé.

On continue à descendre la vallée, soit qu'on veuille se rendre à Maglay, soit qu'on ait l'intention de passer dans le bassin de la Spretza. Si l'on donne la préférence à cette direction, on traverse la Bosna au-dessus de Maglay; on parcourt le plateau commun de cette rivière et de la Spretza. Il est médiocrement élevé, parsemé de terres en labour, d'autres en nature de bois, et passablement peuplé. La vallée de la Spretza, où l'on parvient après quelques heures de marche, est ouverte, et annonce une culture très-soignée. Elle reçoit plusieurs affluens. En la remontant on arrive à Tusta, petite ville fermée par une enceinte en bois, et habitée par des chrétiens. Il faut compter quinze heures depuis le bac où l'on passe la Bosna jusqu'à cette station. Le pays continue d'offrir, à des distances très-rapprochées, des hameaux entourés de beaux vergers, des pâturages et des terres ensemencées qui produisent du froment, de l'orge et du maïs : les parties supérieures sont couronnées de bois. Parvenu à Tusta, on n'est plus qu'à dix ou douze heures de Swornick. Pour se rendre sur la Save, on peut prendre directement à travers le plateau compris entre cette rivière, la Bosna, la Spretza et la Drina.

ainsi dire, et mettrait l'offensive dans une situation critique ; car, en supposant encore que l'ennemi réussisse à le passer, jamais il ne songera à descendre avec la Laskwa dans la vallée de la Bosna, puisqu'il laisserait l'adversaire sur ses derrières : il faut donc indispensablement qu'il l'attaque de front.

On gagne, en parcourant un pays très-varié, la vallée de la Kositza où Budzovatz est situé. On le trouve à l'entrée d'une espèce de cul-de-sac arrosé par un cours d'eau assez considérable. Cette bourgade compte à peu près 800 habitans, tous mnsulmans ; elle est à cinq heures de Traunik.

Arrivé là, on peut choisir entre deux routes pour se rendre à Sérajo. La plus directe passe au han de Javatz qu'on trouve quatre heures plus loin que Budzovatz. Elle descend la vallée de la Kositza, et va déboucher par les sommités, dans celle où la Fognitza coule. Ce cours d'eau principal en reçoit plusieurs autres et se rend dans la Bosna à Visoka. En le remontant, on parvient à une petite ville du même nom, et l'on voit plusieurs fourneaux de forges, qu'alimentent les mines dont il a été parlé. Ces cantons ont une population considérable, com-tributaires. Depuis son embouchure jusqu'à Sérajo, cet affluent coule dans un bassin très-évasé, dont les berges, fortement prononcées, sont généralement nues, et fournissent des cours d'eaux qui rendent le sol marécageux au lieu de le féconder. Une petite partie de ce bassin est en culture; tout le reste est abandonné aux bestiaux. Le climat contrarie peut-être aussi les tentatives de l'agriculture; car en Bosnie la récolte n'arrive pas toujours à maturité, du moins dans les cantons voisins de la chaîne, où la neige couvre plutôt la terre que dans les parties inférieures: d'un autre côté, ils sont plus en prise à cette humidité que les forêts engendrent et entretiennent. On est guidé par la Migliaska jusqu'à Sérajo. Elle peut avoir vingt-cinq à trente toises de largeur moyenne dans cette partie extrême de son cours. La Géliéznitza est son principal affluent. Des ponts de pierre facilitent le passage des nombreux torrens qui croisent la route.

La seconde communication qui conduit de Butzovatz à Sérajo, prend sa direction sur Visoka, c'est-à-dire qu'elle va gagner les bords de la Bosna plus bas que le point où nous l'avons passée en premier lieu. La route, tracée pendant
